Dance ETC

Tasdance, with Annie Greig as the Artistic Director, is dedicated to educating and involving young people in contemporary dance, and works to create passion for and engagement with the arts practice. In Dance ETC, Tasdance has combined skill development and participation to assist in making contemporary dance accessible for all the students involved in this ambitious project.

Tasdance, Tasmania's premier full time professional company, has forged a reputation as a dynamic Australian company with exciting artistic programs that develop audiences, dancers and choreographers. Now in its 26th year, the Launceston based ensemble annually tours its work to audiences throughout Tasmania, regional and capital cities interstate and more recently to international festivals.

The Tasdance nomination for Outstanding Achievement by a Company at both the 2005 and 2006 Australian Dance Awards is testimony to how the company is regarded within the industry nationally.

Tasdance is assisted through Arts Tasmania by the Minister for Tourism, Arts and the Environment and by the Australian Government through the Australia Council, its arts funding and advisory body.

Rio Tinto Aluminium owns and operates Tasmania's only aluminium smelter at Bell Bay, approximately 45 minutes north of Launceston.

The smelter was the first built in the southern hemisphere, commencing operations in 1955. Today, the smelter produces approximately 175,000 tonnes of primary metal for domestic and export markets and directly employs 550 men and women. In addition to its own workforce, the smelter is also responsible for the employment of an additional 1800 Tasmanians. The Bell Bay aluminium smelter has a long history of supporting Tasmania and its communities. Initiatives include community grants, partnerships and a community assistance program.

An Initiative of Rio Tinto Aluminium and The Department of Education Tasmania

Rio Tinto Aluminium and the Tasmanian Education Department entered into a partnership agreement in 2004. Under the partnership, Rio Tinto Aluminium is contributing $200,000 and other in-kind support over three years to achieve agreed goals and objectives. These include the creation and implementation of authentic learning opportunities, improvement in school retention rates and the promotion of student health and well-being. The Dance ETC performance is an example of one of the partnership deliverables, with 550 students working with Tasdance in a series of dance workshops throughout term three, culminating in today's performance.

Emma Porteus

Emma is an independent performer and choreographer and teacher. Emma began her contemporary dance career in 2001 with Stompin. After completing her degree in Contemporary Dance at Deakin, graduating with distinction, she undertook and completed her Honours research into the collaborative process.

In 2004 Emma created and performed in the Melbourne Fringe Festival show Lamplight verses the Moon, which was selected to be part of the Graduate Showcase at Dancehouse. Emma has co-choreographed Tasdance's education projects for the past three years with Microscope, Dry as a Bone and White Light. In 2006 Emma choreographed for Stompin as part of the Outback Fringe Festival in Roxby Downs. Later that year she co-choreographed and performed in sections of Tasdance's Illuminations3 performed in Launceston's Cataract Gorge.

Jay Watson

2007 culminates in a ten year anniversary for local teacher, dancer and choreographer Jay Watson and his time with Tasdance. In 1998 he created the first annual education project Fish finger, and has continued to work with Tasdance in various capacities.

Jay has been involved in 12 seasons, including three educational projects, various festivals throughout the state and professional performances both locally and nationally. During this time Jay has worked with several leading Australian choreographers such as Graeme Murphy, Paul Mercurio and Chrissie Parrott. He has also choreographed Story Lines, Passion fruit and the Poetry and Dance Festival and most recently for the Amalgamation Arts Festival.

2004 saw Jay venture into the Department of Education where he had positions in several schools – 2004 dance and drama teacher at Kings Meadows High School; 2005 special aid and dance teacher at West Launceston Primary School; and dance and drama teacher for Scotch Oakburn College. Jay currently runs six classes at the Tasdance School of Performing Arts.
